Good Afternoon,

Please find the updated 2013-2014 Graduate Bulletin here:
http://grad.georgetown.edu/academics/policies/

There are only a few significant changes this year; all take effect with Fall semester 2013.

1. Subsections "f" and "g" of the Language Scholarship policy (p. 10) contain two changes:
   = We anticipate the extension of the language scholarship program to Summer Session courses come Summer 2014.
   = Doctoral students may petition to enroll via Consortium registration for language courses that they need for their research, but are not taught at Georgetown.

2. The Continuous Registration mode that confers less-than-half-time status has been renumbered from 991/992, Section 2 to 993-Section 1. This was done for technical reasons; the time status it confers will remains the same, and as before, no tuition will be charged. The Registrar will correct the record of any student who is already pre-registered for 991-02 for Fall semester.

3. In the section on Appeals Contesting Grades (pp. 23-24), the stated time periods during which a student must initiate an appeal or a faculty panel must initiate a review have been revised to recognize that grades are often posted to the student’s transcript long after the semester in which the course in question was taken. In such cases, the time periods referred to will begin on the date the grade is posted to the transcript.

4. The sections on the master’s thesis and doctoral dissertation both contain links to the website where ETDs that have been accepted by the Graduate School may be read (see pp. 36 and 41).

Best wishes,

Danielle
